OBITUARY.

The Free Press, of Nov. 25th, contains an obituary notice of J. L. Melton, of the customs service, Winnipeg, and father of Dr. Melton, of Edmonton. The Free Press says: The deceased was one of those members of a community who have hosts of friends and no enemies. He lived a quiet life, devoting his spare time to reading and research, and in the summer day might have been seen on the prairies collecting wild flowers and plants. Deceased came to this country in 1873 from Nova Scotia, of which province he was a native. He was then in the service of the Mackenzie government on the Canadian Pacific railway. After the completion of the line to this city, Mr. Melton went into the local customs office, where he spent the remaining eighteen years of his life. His family joined him here in 1880, and in 1885 Mrs. Melton died. Three sons survive him—Dr. John, Dr. H. L. of Edmonton; Dr. Arthur, Brooklyn; Dr. H. L. married again a few years ago, and his second wife also survives him. Two weeks ago the deceased underwent an operation for an internal trouble. He took a chill shortly afterwards, which settled on his lungs, finally resulting in death.

ROLLER MILL FOR EDMONTON.

Messrs. Dowlin and Ottewell, of Clover Bar, propose to erect a 100 barrel roller flour mill in the Edmonton district this winter, to be ready to grind next season's crop. They have decided to place it in the river valley near the bridge site, so as to be on or near the railway line when it is constructed. In their business it is immaterial to them which side of the river they are on. Their point is to be in the valley, on the river and close to the railway. They can get a free site to suit them free of cost and taxes, being outside the corporation, on the south side of the river. They are willing to build on the north side, in town, if the town will put them in the same position. That is, give a free site close to the river and railway (or if distant from the railway ensure a free right of way) and exempt from taxes for twenty years. The town council considered this proposition at its last meeting and offered exemption from taxes and $200 cash towards a mill site. Messrs. Dowlin and Ottewell say they will not accept this offer and will build on the other side. The property which they desire would cost about $600 or $800, and they are perfectly able to pay for it if they want it. But they don't want it if they have to pay for it, as they can suit themselves as well elsewhere without expense. It is worth more than $600 or $800 to have this mill built where the business it attracts will benefit the established business of the town, rather than where it will tend to draw business elsewhere. The BULLETIN fervently hopes that the council will lose no time in amending their proposition to Messrs. Dowlin and Ottewell so as to ensure the establishment of the mill where it will be a benefit rather than an injury to the town. Now is the time to act—not after business arrangements have anchored the mill elsewhere.

A HARD LUCK STORY.

The BULLETIN has been handed a clipping from the Portland Oregonian, detailing the terrible adventures of W. Sundstrom on the way from Edmonton to the Klondike. The headings are: "Only one got through," "Startling story of a survivor of the trail from Edmonton to Dawson." The despatch is from Vancouver, dated Sept 29th, and states that Sundstrom left Edmonton on January 13th, and reached Dawson on Aug. 2nd. It continues: He claims to have travelled 3,000 miles through trackless forests, and to be the only one of 2,000 people who started via Edmonton to the Klondike. The scenes along the trail, he says, were terrible. The thermometer often went 50 below zero, and the suffering was awful. Hundreds threw themselves on the snow and wept, many threatening to blow their brains out. Seventy-five per cent of all the horses taken were frozen to death." Mr. Sundstrom is evidently an awful liar. So much so as to make it possible that notwithstanding his statement he never reached Dawson at all. But if he did reach there at the time he says he had nothing to kick about. Possibly the thermometer did go 50 below zero sometimes. Possibly men did throw themselves on the snow and weep on account of the hardship. Possibly he and others thought the Edmonton route was a puiman car line through a banana belt. But no one ever told them so or gave them to understand that they would not have great hardships to face. The man who went with any other idea had no business going. Certainly a large number of horses did die, not from freezing, however, but having been abused and starved to death through the ignorance and laziness of the owners, ten-dearfeet, such as Sundstrom. But hundreds of horses were taken to the Liard and Dease rivers all right, and practically without loss by men who understood their business. Mr. Sundstrom was just two months longer in reaching Dawson than he might have been had he gone by the White pass, having had no more risks or hardships or expense than he would have had going that way at that time. Apparently like Capt. Cadell, he found Dawson itself no better than the Edmonton route to it. What did he go for? If it was merely to go and come back, no one would recommend the Edmonton route—or for that matter any other. But if he wanted to prospect, he passed through a larger stretch of gold bearing country by following the Edmonton route than he could have by any other way. The Edmonton route is essential.

ly a prospector's route, it is not now and never was put up as a freight or passenger route. But as a means of reaching gold bearing territory with a proper prospecting outfit at a fair cost and in reasonable time it is the best route for men who understand their business, or are willing to learn it.

FROM THE LIARD.

James and John Fair, of Elkhorn, Manitoba, arrived from the Liard, Peace river and Slave lake on Wednesday evening last. They left Edmonton on March 12th, and were at the mouth of the Beaver river on the Liard, about 30 miles above the mouth of the Nelson, on August 24th. They turned from there, starting back on the 25th. They returned by the way they went—by boat up the Nelson to Fort Nelson, and then by horse to Peace River Crossing, Slave lake and Edmonton. Eli Carpenter, of Slocan fame, and August Kramps, who were with the Fair Bros. on the Liard, decided to push on up the river to Sylvester, and if possible Pelly river.

The Fairs report the drowning of Capt. J. H. Mason, leader of the Philadelphia party, at the mouth of the Nelson on August 24th. After reaching Fort Nelson on July 28th, the Philadelphia party decided on Indian reports to raft their horses and outfit down the Nelson and the Liard to the mouth of La Biche river, which comes into the Liard from the west, about 25 miles below the mouth of the Nelson. They had been told that a trail existed through an easy country along the La Biche river, which would take them across the great bend of the Liard to the mouth of the Dease in less time than by any other way. They reached the mouth of the Nelson on Aug. 24th, and their two rafts got hung up on sand bars, some little distance apart. The captain remained alone on one of the rafts undertaking to lighten it by driving the horses off it into the water, which was shallow, while all the rest of the party worked at the other raft. They saw that he was successful in getting the horses off, and was riding one of them through the water to shore. They went on with their work, expecting the captain to join them shortly, but he did not. They became alarmed and searched for him. They found the horses all right, including the one he had been riding, but they found no trace of Capt. Mason. They searched the river as well as they could, and found his hat, but no other trace. They were about continuing their journey, very much disheartened when the Fairs met them as they were coming back.

While going up the Liard to the Beaver the Fairs caught up to a party of 21 Chicago men, who had eight small boats and canoes, heavily laden. They expected to winter on the Liard above the rapids.

Coming down from the Beaver, before reaching the Nelson, they met three Chicago men, who called themselves the We Will party. They had a heavily laden boat, and were tied up a few miles above the mouth of the Nelson awaiting other parties whom they expected coming up to help them to track by doubling crews. A Swede, of the Philadelphia party, joined these.

The Fairs left Nelson on August 18th, and got back on Sept. 5th, having made the trip to the Liard by boat. They left Nelson by trail with horses for Peace River Crossing on Oct. 23rd, but were delayed on the way from various causes. They estimate the distance from Peace River Crossing to Fort Nelson, by the trail, at 50 miles.

As already stated the parties who left Peace River Crossing began to arrive at Nelson on July 28th. They had all arrived before the 10th of August, except the Richardson party, of Kansas, and the Fraser-Stanley party of Calgary, who had started some weeks later than the others.

The Richardson party, after reaching the east branch of the Nelson, instead of following the other parties, had made a raft there and floated their supplies down to Fort Nelson driving their horses along the bank light. They made slow progress, but their horses came in fat. They reached Nelson about the 20th of August. There were seven in this party. They intended going down to the Liard by boat and preparing winter quarters, and would drive their horses down after the ground froze.

The Fraser Bros. and Stanley, of Calgary, were met on the trail about 100 miles from Fort Nelson on Sept. 14. Travelling well. They would probably winter at Nelson.

Other parties who reached Fort Nelson were: Geddes, of Geddes & Harris, with a band of cattle. They started from Edmonton with about 50 head of cattle and 26 pack horses and reached Nelson with 46 head of cattle in good condition. Two or three had become lame on the trail and had been killed and the beef used. The Harris Bros., of this party turned from the other side of Hay river and went home to the States. At Nelson Geddes had five men, the three who had started with him and two members of a Chicago party of seven. Geddes left Nelson with his cattle to cross the mountains to Sylvester, about August 10th.

A. D. Osborne, of Edmonton, two

Jamieson Bros., and another man formed a party.

Murphy and O'Neill, of the Murphy party.

Randelman, of the Big Four.

Mason, from Ontario, and two others.

Two Frenchmen.

The foregoing all left for across the mountains to Sylvester between the 1st and 15th of August.

J. Cluthe, Lacapelle, and Frank Baquin, of St. Albert, and Geo. Bishop, of Vermont, went down the river.

Also Chas. Hellmuth, of Brooklyn; J. M. Holmes, Philadelphia; E. S. Cole, and W. Harris, of Pelican rapids, Minnesota, and Peter Simonson, of Edmonton. This party was known as the Crooked Five.

Also L. Morgan and Atherton, of the Big Four.

Also the 14 Philadelphians, the Richardson party, and Krump and Carpenter.

Parker, of the Murphy party, and Stephenson, of the Fair party, returned to Edmonton some time ago.

Three of the Chicago 7 returned to Peace River, two, a Swede and a German, remain at Nelson and two joined the Geddis party.

J. L. Secord, of Edmonton, remains at Nelson.

These parties had employed about 300 horses in reaching Fort Nelson, and out of the whole number possibly 50 had been lost.

Wood Bros. of Pigeon lake, are wintering on the east branch of the Nelson.

C. R. French and H. A. Lothrop, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, and Alfred Holder, of Boston, are wintering at the crossing of Hay river.

P. Simonson had mined on the Saskatchewan for some years. He could find no gold on the Nelson and only a small showing on the Liard up to the time the Fairs left.

Further information which they gave regarding the trail and other matters will be published later.

HOSE HILLS.

Improvements in tp. 54-23-4th: Robert Hopkins and J. Moffat have bought the west half of section 17, and have broken about 100 acres. They are now busy building a house and stable, and both families will soon be settled down in their new home. Henry Fergward has also finished building a large barn, which adds much to the looks of his cosy home. Geo. West has also bought the N. W. quarter section 10 and has broken about 30 acres. He will build and move on next spring. Tom White, from Parry Sound, has taken a homestead on S. W. quarter 10, and has finished building a house and stable, and has everything comfortable now for the winter.

Tp. 54-24-5:

Fred McLeay has bought the N. E. quarter section 13, and has broken about 54 acres. He will build and move on next spring. Samuel Bolton, from Calabogie, Ont., has bought the S. E. quarter section 13, has broken about 33 acres, built a house and stable. Mrs. Bolton and family arrived last train and Sam is now a happy man in his new western home. Wm. Breyer, also from Calabogie, has bought the N. W. quarter section 13 and has broken about 30 acres. He will soon have his house and other buildings completed. His mother will join him in March. Mr. Lockhart and Billy Robertson from Carrickfergus, Ireland, have bought out Alex Reid's farm on Walker flats. They have also broken about 30 acres more land. Mr. Lockhart built a fine frame house, and had only moved in when accidentally the house caught fire and burnt everything. No insurance. Mr. Lockhart has the sympathy of the people in this neighborhood, and it is hoped a bad beginning will make a good ending. H. Vizina has purchased the N. W. quarter of 17 and has broken 50 acres on it. Joseph Wilson has bought a farm on Walker's flat and has broken about 24 acres. He will build next spring. Joe is a rustler and will soon have one of the finest farms on Walker flats. C. White from Parry Sound, has taken a homestead on N. W. quarter section 10 and has a fine field summerfallowed for crop next spring.

Since the new era has dawned barbed wire has become much cheaper, and farmers are now able to make good, neat, lasting, fire proof fences. A few manufacturers are displaced, but the greatest good to the greatest number is the best policy for any government and the people.

EDNA.

After a very long and painful sickness Mr. Thomas Swan died at his residence on Sunday the 6th inst. A number of friends showed their sympathy to the bereaved. Undoubtedly many more would have been present but for the election, and three threshing crews working in the district. The interment service was conducted by the Rev. Forbes assisted by Rev. Hoylor, at the Moravian church, on Tuesday last.

A lot of sickness prevails in the district with adults and children. Shackleton & Harris have been threshing here, the work will be through this week. Crops have been generally light with an abundance of straw, the grain poor. This is especially true in the haled area. The weather continues fine and open with the cattle at large, looking well. Several new houses are now completed, including Messrs. Ross, McDonald, Garrett, Poulin, Shaw, Hecker and Boucian. Mr. J. Hecker continues very sick. Mr. Shackleton is now in the settlement grinding grain with his engine. The steamers have left three crops here not threshed. Nov. 28, '98.

JOSSEPHBURG.

The post office of this settlement is Beaver Hills. The people are mostly Austrian-Germans who moved up from Dunnmore, Assa., six or seven years ago. Josephburg or rather Josefburg, was the name of their old home in Austria. Threshing is now over and the yield per acre and per farm shows that it is no great trick to get rich at farming in the Beaver Hills. There are to be two saw mill outfits with portable engines in the neighborhood of this settlement this winter.

Philip Mohr, Sr., was in Edmonton last week applying for a timber license for his outfit. Lumber is beginning to be much needed, and the high price at Edmonton, coupled with the long haul, make it probable that lumber should be supplied at a lower point. We are to have two excellent neighbors in the Hughes Bros., who have bought the whole of Section 35, one mile west of Josephburg creamery, and intend moving in from Minnesota and breaking up a large tract next summer. They would have bought nearer to the school, but there was not a whole section still unoccupied. In fact there are now only two or three quarter sections of C. P. R. land in Josephburg school district that are not in private hands. The Presbyterian man has been "sided up" lately, and thereby very much improved in appearance, and also, no doubt, in comfort.

LACOMBE.

Still the building fever continues and a number of improvements are being made in old buildings. C. Daykin has erected a new warehouse, owing to the increase of trade and general prosperity. M. McLeod has also fixed up the rear of his store so as to make more room for goods. G. Jamieson has nearly completed his house and will in a short time move his family into it. W. Puffer shipped a car load of cattle to Medicine Hat on the 10th. A magic lantern show was exhibited in the Methodist church on the 17th by Mr. Buddle, a colporteur. We are glad to learn that Charlie Bruce is now convalescent. He has been ill for a few weeks at his father's residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bruce, of Calgary, are here on a visit. Rev. Mr. Dean and wife, of Wetaskiwin, spent last week at the parsonage. Mr. Parfley, of Buffalo lake welcomed some English friends a few days ago, who had just recently arrived from the motherland. A. Adams, track master of the southern section of the C. P. R., is home on a visit. The Methodist thanksgiving social was quite a success in every respect. Both of the churches are preparing for the annual Xmas tree and concert. Rumor has it that next month one of our young merchants and the daughter of a leading rancher are to become one. Mrs. Dr. McNeil returned to her home in Prince Edward Island on the 26th. No need of Galicians in Lacombe judging from the numerous additions we are having. The wife of J. Hunter gave birth to twins, boy and girl, on the 9th. The wife of Nelson Randall gave birth to a daughter on the 9th. The wife of Frank Forman gave birth to daughter on the 16th. The wife of Fay Bagley gave birth to a daughter on the 18th. It is generally regretted that Chief Sampson is quite ill. He has been in every respect a model leader to his people.

The public school is busy preparing for a concert to take place during Xmas week. Nov. 26th, '98.
